London, August 22.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France, and another from Flanders.

Rome, August 2.

SIG. Bichi, who was formerly Nuncio in Portugal, and Sig. Massei, Nuncio at the Court of France, are recommended by the Grand Duke of Tuscany to the Pope, in order to their Promotion to the Cardinalate. Sig. Alexander Dolfi is consecrated Bishop of Fano, by Cardinal Buon-Compagni, in the Church of St. André de la Valle. Prince Emelie Altieri being cut lately for a Fistula, the Operation has had a very bad Effect; he is now at the Point of Death, and has already received the last Sacraments of the Church. Cardinal Schrottenbach, lately Viceroy of Naples, has hired the Hôtel de Riccio, situated in the Street of Longara in this City, whence 'tis conjectured that he will shortly be appointed the Emperour's Ambassadour at this Court, in the room of Cardinal Althan, who 'tis expected will be recalled to Vienna. Two Archers having presumed lately to enter the Hôtel of Cardinal de Bussu, Archbishop of Malines, to Arrest a Person who had fled thither for Sanctuary, several of that Prelate's Domesticks opposed the Archers, in Defence of the Privileges of their Master's House, and obliged them to retire: His Eminency, nevertheless, immediately dispatched one of his Gentlemen to the Governour of this City, to complain against the Insolency of those Officers; who thereupon are since imprisoned. Letters from Madrid say, that the Queen Dowager of Spain was expected to arrive there, and that it was believed the Pension of 400000 Ducats a Year would be granted to her, pursuant to the Will of the late King Charles II. her Husband.

Genoa, Aug. 3. It is reported that our Senate has resolved to remit to London the Money due to the Creditors of Sig. Justiniani. Three French Ships laden with Oyl from the Levant appeared lately off of this Port, but were refused Entrance, because of their having touched at the Coasts of Provence: The last Letters from thence say, that not above 10 or 12 Persons now die in a Day at Toulon; and that the City Gates were kept shut to prevent Communication with the neighbouring infected Places. It is feared that Arles will be entirely dispeopled by the Plague. M. Perrin has ordered three Batallions to march towards the Mountains, to prevent the Infection reaching the Towns of those Parts. The Province of Languedoc is full of Alarms, where the Inhabitants observe all sorts of Precautions to keep out the Pestilence.

Berlin, Aug. 16. 'Count Kinsky, Envoy Extraordinary from the Emperour to the Czar, arrived 'here some Days ago, and went Yesterday to Potsdam to view the Companies of the King of Prussia's great Grenadiers, and will proceed To-Day 'on his Journey towards Petersbourg: His Retinue consists of 30 Persons. His Prussian Majesty is expected back this Evening from Stettin. 'Count Golofskin, the Czar's Minister, is preparing to set out hence for Brunswick. Letters 'from Vienna say, that besides the Deputies which 'are arrived there from the Chapter of Minden, 'others are likewise arrived from Osnabruck, to represent some Matters transacted by their Bishop. 'Those Letters add, that the new Levies are successfully carried on in the Emperour's Hereditary 'Dominions; and that Couriers are frequently dispatched to Italy, and to Baron Bentenrieder at 'Paris.

Paris, Aug. 27. Advices of the 19th Instant from Pontavlier in Franche Comté say, that M. de Beaunez, Governour of that City, went on the 5th, by Order of the King and the Duke of Orleans, to the Principality of Neufchattel, to consult on the Subject of Commerce with M. Froment, Lieutenant-General, and Governour of that Principality for the King of Prussia; and also with others of that Regency. Extraordinary Honours were paid M. Beaunez on his Arrival, 600 Men being drawn up under Arms to receive him on the Confines of the Principality, who fired a Volley as soon as they perceived him; when he drew near the Batalion, a second Discharge was made, and a third at the time he passed by them. On his Way to the Castle, a Party of 60 Men were drawn up under Arms, and a like Number at his Entrance into the Village Fleurier, where they also made the like Number of Discharges. Mess. Froment and de Chambrier, the Mayor and Councellours of State, the chief General, and Chancery Officers of the Country, accompanied with divers Members of the Corporations, received M. Beaunez in the Market-place of that Village; and after mutual Compliments and Civilities being passed, they conducted him towards the Castle, situated on the Top of a Mountain, within a League of Fleurier, and there another Detachment of Soldiers under Arms saluted him; and Madame de Froment, accompanied by several Ladies, joined the Company, and added their Congratulations upon his Arrival into those Territories: During his Abode of three Days in the Castle, he was entertained with great Splendour, three Tables being covered twice a Day, one of 18 Dishes, and two of fourteen; at which Healths were drank to the King of France, to the Duke Regent, to the King and Queen of Prussia, and the Prince Royal; the great Guns being fired at each Health. Before M. Beaunez set out to return to his Government, M. Froment, and the Regency, gave him the utmost Assurances, that they would use their best Endeavours to prevent an Interruption of the Commerce with France, which has been much solicited on Occasion of the Contagion. On the 8th in the Afternoon, M. Beaunez set out on his Journey to his Government in the Franche Comté, and was reconducted to the Limits of the Territories of Neufchattel with the like Honours as were paid at his Entrance. M. Froment, Governour of Neufchattel, is a Native of Tez in Languedoc, whence he departed for the cause of Religion in the Year 1686; at which Time M. Beaunez then commanded that City; and has since been present at the Sieges of Lille and Antwerp, and in several Great Battles, always behaving well, and has thereby acquired himself a Place in the Esteem of his Prussian Majesty.

On the 25th, being a Festival Day, the Carmelite Fryars went in Procession to present the holy Bread to the King; and in going by the Street where Henry the Fourth of France was killed, they stopped stopped and sung a Libera, &c. for the Repose of that Monarch's Soul. The same Day his Majesty received Compliments from the Princes of the Blood and Foreign Ministers.
